From Thursday July 23. to Monday July 27. 1702.

From the Imperial Camp at Montanara, July 9. N. S. THE 5th Inſtant, Adjutant-General Davia, who had been out with a Party of Horſe between Cremona and Picighittone, returned hither with a Spaniſh Lieutenant and Two Troopers he had taken Priſoners. We foraged this day on the other ſide of the Mincio with very good Succeſs. This day a Party of 100 Foot came out of Mantua to attack about 60 of our Horſe which were poſted near the Mincio, and having made their Diſcharge at too great a diſtance, ſo that it did no execution, our Men ran upon them, and having broke them, the Enemy threw down their Arms and ran away; many of them were killed, and their Arms were taken; on our ſide only one Trooper was ſlightly wounded. Upon Notice that the French had bought up a great deal of Corn in the Ferrareſe and the Venetian Territories, to be carried by Water to Verona, and from thence by Land to Mantua, and that part of it was already ſent away, a Party of 30 Cuiraſſiers and 20 Huſſars was ſent out to intercept it, which they did, and brought ſeveral Boats loaded therewith to Oſtiglia. The 8th, one of our Parties meeting with one of the Enemy near Geſole, killed their Officer and 14 Troopers. This day, after ſeveral Meſſages from the French, deſiring a Cartel for the Exchange of Priſoners, Commiſſioners were named on both ſides to adjuſt that Matter. The 9th, we have an Account, That the Enemy has ſent Four Battalions of Foot towards the Oglio, which are to be followed to morrow by a Regiment of Horſe and another of Dragoons. The Enemy have got together many Boats at Cremona to carry their Artillery, Ammunition and Proviſions down the Po; and it is ſaid, they have a Deſign upon our Bridge over that River at Borgoforte.

Venice, July 14. Our Letters from the Imperial Camp near Mantua ſay, they are ſtill in the ſame advantagious Poſt, and have perfected their Intrenchments near the Gate Pradella, notwithſtanding the continual Fire from the Town upon them, and the great Endeavours that have otherwiſe been uſed by the Enemy to hinder that Work; and that Prince Eugene having Intelligence, that the Old Prince of Vaudemont was arrived in the French Camp, and that the Duke of Vendoſme had ſent a conſiderable Detachment towards Viadana, had thereupon detached 8000 Horſe towards the Lenza, to obſerve the Motions of the Enemy.

Cracow, July 15. The King of Poland having got together moſt of his Saxon Forces, marched from hence the 12th Inſtant towards the Swediſh Army, in order to attack it, before it could be joined by the Forces that are coming from Pomeren. He had before ſent Orders to the Forces of the Crown to join him in his march, which are marching for that purpoſe with great diligence. We hear, the King of Sweden having notice thereof, continued his March without waiting any longer for his Forces from Pomerenu, and that the Two Armies are come within 4 Leagues of one another.

Breſlaw, July 22. We have received an Account, That the King of Sweden with his Army being come up with the King of Poland's Army, within 3 German Miles of Cracow, attacked their Left Wing, which was compos'd of his Poliſh Forces, who, after ſome Reſiſtance, were defeated: This occaſioned a great deal of Diſorder among the Saxons, who were likewiſe obliged to retire, leaving behind them their Arms and Bagage. The Swedes had cut off their Retreat to Cracow, ſo that it is ſuppoſed a great number were killed or taken. General Flemming and General Steynau, two of the King of Polana's chief Officers, are mortally wounded; the King himſelf is ſaid to have eſcaped to Tarnouitz, on the Frontiers of Sileſia, intending to go and put himſelf at the head of ſome Saxon Regiments which were marching through this Country to join him. The further Particulars of this Action muſt be expected in our next Letters.

Vienna, July 19. The Marquis del Vaſto arrived here the 13th Inſtant from Italy, and has had Audience of the Emperor, by whom he was very kindly received. Two new-raiſed Regiments of Huſſars paſſed by this Place two or three days ago in their March to the Imperial Camp before Landau, and another is following thither with all poſſible diligence. They write from Tirol, That the Forces which the Dukes of Saxe-Weymar and Saxe-Gotha have put into the Emperor's Service, are marched through that Country towards the Imperial Camp in Italy.

Heydelberg, July 25. The King and Queen of the Romans arrived here this day, and were received with all poſſible Demonſtrations of Reſpect. A great Entertainment is preparing for them and their Retinue againſt to morrow, when the King enters into the 24th year of his Age; and the next day he intends to proceed to the Camp before Landau.

Francfort, July 26. Six Pieces of heavy Cannon and Two Mortars were brought hither yeſterday from Bamberg, which, with a great quantity of Ammunition, and 1000 Muskets, from our Magazines, will be ſent in a day or two to the Imperial Camp before Landau. A Regiment of Horſe of the Forces of the Dukes of Wolfenbuttel, which is marching thither, came yeſterday to Laubach, within 6 miles of this Town, and will ſhortly be followed by the reſt of the Forces which thoſe Princes have put into the Emperor's Service. An Imperial Regiment of Cuiraſſiers marched from Heilbron the 21ſt Inſtant to the ſaid Camp, and 5000 Huſſars are ſhortly expected there. The Count of Hanau went thither two days ago from this Place, and the Landgrave of Heſſe-Darmſtad intends to be there in a day or two. Our Accounts from thence ſay, the Waters of the Queich, and other Rivers, whoſe overflowing has been ſome hindrance to the Siege, begin to fall, and that Prince Lewis has carried on his Trenches very near to the Counterſcarp, and thoſe on the ſide of General Thungen's Attack are advanced within 14 Paces of the Glacis of the Cittadel. Marſhal Catinat having conſumed the Forage about Haguenau and Brumat, has removed his Camp more towards Strasbourg. We hear the ſwelling of the Rhine, occaſioned by the late Rains, has overflowed the Iſland before Huningen, and obliged the French to quit that Poſt. The Margrave of Baden-Dourlach continues over-againſt it with a Body of 8 or 9000 Men.

From the Camp of the Allies at Geldorp, July 30. The Ways were ſo bad the 25th Inſtant, by reaſon of the continual Rains, that the Generals thought fit to defer the March of the Army from Over-Aſſal for that day; however moſt part of the Bagage went over the Maeſe in the afternoon upon three Bridges juſt below Grave, and the 26th the whole Army followed, having firſt reinforced the Gariſon of Nimeghen to 16 Battalions of Foot, and 7 Squadrons of Horſe. We came and encamped with the Left at Zeeland, and the Right at Uden, and the 27th continued our March about Four Leagues, and encamped with the Left at Leyſhout, and the Right near Nunen. Some Squadrons of the Enemy appeared the 26th in the morning at a good diſtance, while the Army was paſſing over the Maeſe, but did not think fit to advance ſo far as to intercept our March; and the 27th, in the morning, we had Intelligence, That the Enemy decamped about 10 a Clock the night before; that being come within 3 Leagues of Venlo, they halted for about 3 hours, and then continued their March towards that Place, in order to paſs the Maeſe: The 28th, our Army marched from Nunen, and encamped with the Right at Geldorp, and the Left at Muerle, where we halted yeſterday, and are this day marching to Hamon, in the Country of Liege. We have Advice, That the French having paſſed the Maeſe about Venlo, are come to Weert, which is within Two Leagues of Hamon, ſo that our next March will be regulated, with regard to the Motions of the Enemy, whom we hope to oblige to repaſs the Demer, and then all the Country on this ſide that River will lie at our Diſcretion. Brigadier-General Roſs, with the 3 Engliſh Regiments of Dragoons, the Engliſh Train of Artillery, and Two Swiſs Battalions of Foot, came laſt night to Eyndhoven, and will join us this evening: Eight Battalions of the Troops left at Nimeghen, and Two from Grave, are likewiſe marching to join us.
